

THE CONSPIRACY OF THE MEDICAL INDUSTRY.. DESCRIPTION:

Here are the facts about...

how clean came to be synonymous with white.

why hygiene became a good thing, an ideal

what consequences health debate has on social differentiation

how to escape the numbing consequences by embracing perversity and irregularity

and much more...

IMPORTANT NOTICE: this is an empty case.
It can be filled out by any content.

MuseumOfTheInter.net
2012

The Conspiracy of

The MEDICAL INDUSTRY

...

BLUE MONDAY

So, yesterday was Sunday, Sundays are the worst, they are the end, the pain.

Sundays she writes, she feels the pain, the agony, hungover, she writes.

Yesterday was Sunday, she wrote:

(solemn, pompous, alpha male voice)

FEAR SHRUGS AT MY MERE EXISTENCE

NO LONGER DO I FEAR DEATH

So, today is Monday, Mondays tend to be so good, such a rebirth, renewal, so clean.

Mondays she would usually shower, work out, shower, wash, clean.

Today is Monday.

The letters - one is green, one is blue.

The letters, the envelopes, marked by a letter, an 'H', coloured green, fading green.

Sunday is green.

So, yesterday was Sunday, Green Sunday

The letter, the envelope

marked with the letter 'H'

green

oh, how she misses the green, the fading green not a death sentence, not at all.

The letters - all of a sudden, like a reminder they started showing up

BLUE letters, white envelopes, the letter 'H' coloured blue, fading blue blue letters started appearing, frequently, reminding her constantly

Back then she wrote:
(imperative to self)
DO NOT BELIEVE THE LETTERS
THEY'RE ALL LIES
YOU WILL NOT DIE
FROM CERVICAL CANCER

So, today is Monday, Blue Monday
The letter, the envelope
marked with the letter 'H'
blue
Monday is Blue
the death sentence
she writes:

TELL ME SOMETHING I DON'T KNOW
AND TELL IT TO THE GUYS TOO

